April 13, 2021

The Honorable Xavier Becerra
Secretary of Health and Human Services
Hubert H Humphrey Building
200 Independence Ave SW
Washington DC 20201

Dear Secretary Becerra:

We write as publishers, editors and journalists at the nation's community newspapers to urge your attention to our important role in addressing small, rural, ethnic and minority communities in the new "We Can Do This Campaign."

Our newspapers are reaching the audiences you are looking for. We publish weekly and daily in print and hourly on digital platforms to people seeking local news. Our readers are old, young, Republicans, Democrats and Independents, who are highly motivated to vote, engage in civic leadership and develop their small communities. These are the audiences who can help to get shots into arms.

To date, despite guidance from Congress in the Department's 2021 appropriations legislation to make better use of local media, our newspapers have not been contacted for the $10 billion advertising campaign.

The HHS advertising should appear in April and May on our print pages, on our website and on our Facebook posts. Your message in our publications will be highly-focussed in a medium that is best designed to handle powerful, complex and urgent messages.

Our industry has the ability to quickly assist your media buyers in distributing placement orders in thousands of community newspapers in an efficient and cost-effective manner. Please do not let the social media platforms that have been the source of so much misinformation about the coronavirus be the primary medium for talking to America.

Please ask your team to contact National Newspaper Association's executive director, Lynne Lance, at the earliest opportunity so we can discuss the ways our newspapers can help. She is available at lynne@nna.org. Thank you for your kind attention.

We can do this!

Sincerely,

Brett Wesner
President, Wesner Publications in Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico
And Chair, National Newspaper Association
